11543522	RECRUITER		1 40	FALL RIVER			ABORG	12/19/18
	The duties of an ABLE recruiter fall into three categories: recruiting, placement, and field employee management. Recruiting (45%) This category includes three main functions: candidate sourcing; activation (hiring); and reactivation. Candidate sourcing is accomplished by many concurrent activities. Among these are: maintaining job postings; networking with employment counselors in public and nonprofit agencies; making cold calls; holding job fairs; and leafleting or dropping business cards in public areas. Activities will also include generating publicity in the news media and on the internet, as well as making a professional first impression in the office, in our materials and on the phone. We must provide excellent service to applicants in order to attract excellent candidates. Candidate activation is the process by which we extend offers of hire conditional on a suitable assignment (COH) to our temporary and temp to hire (TTH) candidates. This process includes effective screening of prospects, conducting appropriate assessments, drug testing, interviewing, and verification of identity and employment history. This also includes immediate and complete documentation. Working candidates and those who are available only for direct placements do not receive the conditional offer of hire. However, the
